SEARCH METHODS

Every search box supports "terms and connectors" functionality. This means that each search term you enter is treated as a separate word. If you enter words using no connectors Westlaw UK will automatically connect the words using an 'AND' connector and return all documents where your terms appear.

Connectors you can use on Westlaw UK:

SEARCH CONNECTORS
Connector	Symbol	Retrieves
AND	& (or a space)	Search terms in the same document:
		trademark & registration
OR	Or	Either search term or both:
		car or automobile
Phrase	" "	Search terms appearing in the same order as in the quotation marks: "fiduciary duty"
Grammatical Connectors	/s	Search terms in the same sentence: nuisance /s smell
	/p	Search terms in the same paragraph: hearsay /p admissibility
	+s	The first term preceding the second within the same sentence: burden +s proof
	+p	The first term preceding the second within the same paragraph: right +p counsel
Numerical Connectors	/n	Search terms within"n"terms of each other (where"n"is a number): person /3 jurisdiction
	+n	The first term preceding the second by'n'terms (where'n'is a number): capital +3 punishment
BUT NOT	%	Documents not containing the term or terms following the % symbol: taxation % income
		Use the % connector with caution; it may cause relevant documents to be excluded from your search result.

NATURAL LANGUAGE

This search facility does not use terms and connectors but allows you to describe your issue in plain English, for example must a manufacturer disclose the side effects of a drug.

When you use Natural Language, you retrieve a maximum of 100 results. When your search is complete, the documents are returned in order of relevance.

Pepper v Hart
1. The rule in Pepper v Hart [1993] AC 593 HL is the rule that, contrary to their previous self-denying ordnance, the courts will permit themselves to look at the report of Parliamentary proceedings in Hansard for the purpose of resolving ambiguity in the construction of statute.
2. The rule is frequently regarded, by judges and others, as having resulted in less light than heat. But it is invoked regularly and is

Robert Day, one of America's richest men, dumped the stock in three separate transactions on January 9 and 10, according to documents filed with AMF, the French market regulator. News of the share sale prompted a group of 130 SocGen shareholders to file a legal complaint in Paris.
Frederik-Karel Canoy, a lawyer acting for the group, said the complaint was not related to the Kerviel scandal, but to the euro2bn write-down the bank took to cover its sub-prime exposure. The group questioned the "precision and sincerity" of the bank's financial disclosures.
The shares were sold at prices between euro95.20 and euro95.90. SocGen shares dived to a three-year low yesterday, down almost 4pc to euro71.05.
Mr Day received his shares in SocGen in 2001 when the bank bought US fund manager TCW for US$1.3bn (pounds 655m), where he was co-owner.
